Office: Creative Office Environments, Ashland

What makes it stand out: Open vistas, collaborative spaces. This workplace interiors and technology company designed an 88,000-square-foot work lab that encourages collaboration. In this office without walls, even the railing on the staircase — made of a mesh, steel aircraft cable — allows an unobstructed view. An employee can stand in one place and see what's going on through most of the office. Nearly 100 people work for the company, which also has locations in Chesapeake and Charlottesville.
